Brendan
Dear Mr Brown,

Thank you for your letter of 2 August 2018 and your kind words regarding my address at the RSL Congress in May.

The memorials along ANZAC Parade are governed by the National Capital Authority. RSL NSW should contact the National Capital Authority for information on the spaces available along ANZAC Parade and the process to request a new memorial. Contact information for the National Capital Authority is below:

On 23 June 2016, the Memorial unveiled two new plaques within the Commemorative Area. The first plaque recognises and commemorates the sacrifice of Australians who have died in training exercises whilst the second recognises the trauma experienced by those who have been wounded, either physically or psychologically, during the course of their service. I have attached an image of the plaques for your reference.

The Memorial acknowledges the service of Australians killed in military training and those who have been wounded due to their service. We owe a debt to all those who have served, those who have died and those who return never the same.

kindest regards
Yours sincerely,

Brendan Nelson
